

Annotated Bibliography Assignment:

Your assignment for the next several weeks will be to create a perfectly cited annotated bibliography of web pages and resources found during this project. You will need: 2 citations from the following web databases and specialty sites: Infotrac Health Resource Center, Electric Library, Ebsco Host, Worldbook Online, and Alaska State Library Page.

Your citations must be perfect to receive credit. You must have exact punctuation, capitalization, and formatting as this is expected in further education. Follow the examples exactly if you want credit.

For your annotations, you must provide 3-5 sentences describing your web site or article. For full credit, comments should summarize the information found in the source and give an opinion of the article. Mention specifically what was featured in the site then give your overall judgment of the page.

Sample Citations

Online Magazine Article:

Abes, Donald. "Tlingit Threads." America Schools. Nov. 1999. 31 Dec. 1997.

http://www.asu.edu/nat_studies.html

This article covered ceremonial and traditional clothing worn by Tlingits. Most of the clothing pictures had animals made out of beads. The same designs were on the blankets they wore on their back. Some of the men had nose rings. A few pictures had kayak paddles in them, and they were carved into animal heads. This article provided many photographs and a little text about clothing. I thought it was very thorough in covering its subject.

Professional Web Page (author's name missing):

"Alaska Studies & Cultures." Inupiaq Culture. 9 Sept. 1997. North American Native Association. 31 Dec. 1997. http://www.nan.org/inupiaq_culture.html.

This website pictured a wide variety of objects showing how the Inupiaq lived before the 20th century. You could see how they survived using the land around them, and how they used simple objects to stay comfortable. I thought that this collection was very helpful because you could see how the Eskimos lived and that they were very sophisticated.
